

PILLAR C – CIVIL AND CULTURAL COMMUNICATION RIGHTS C.3 Universality of social communication networks.
Attributes of communication rights	Relevant data: legal basis, sources for assessment of implementation, indicators and parameters for further evaluation	More information: websites and documents (specific EU, institutional)	International standards	Role of non-state actors & Initiatives, proposals and critical analysis
C.3 Universality of social communication networks. C3.1 Are the postal and telephony systems universal and affordable for personal communication?	Constitutional principles Legal basis (with specific reference to documents) Directive 2002/22/EC of 7 March 2002 on universal service and users' rights relating to electronic communications networks and services (Universal Service Directive) Directive 2002/19/EC of 7 March 2002 on access to, and interconnection of, electronic communications networks and associated facilities (Access Directive) Policies/strategies/programmes  Structures, people (departments, ad hoc offices ecc.)  Evaluation mechanisms (activated at institutional level) On 31/12/2002, the Commission publishes the "List of standards and/or specifications for electronic communications networks, services and associated facilities and services" (2002/C 331/04)	In this section we indicate reference to all resources (web, documents code) that are specific of the EU and related to the institutional dimension 	International Standards (es Universal Declaration of Human Rights, art ???)  Regional Standards – non European (es. Interamerican Convention on Human Rights...)  Other materials, useful documentation (es. UNESCO Report on Freedom of Information ecc., available at...)	Identification of non-state actors (particularly civil society organizations) that have been active on the topic at the EU level + together with initiatives, campaigns, petitions, positions that have been expressed  Evaluation mechanisms (activated by non-State actors)  Critical analyses that have been carried on by NGOs, associations, scholars, others
Eventual - In this section we indicate relevant information or aspects concerning not the EU but the State level (of policies, debates ecc.)
Eventual - In this section we indicate information concerning EU position in relation to international treaties, negotiations, ecc..				